

Mark Dvorak is back for another home concert at Tara and Jerry's Saturday, Feb 15 at 7 PM

It's a sweet treat for Valentine's weekend. Listen: <http://www.markdvorak.com/someonetowatchoverme.mp3> WFMT calls him "Chicago's official troubadour". The Tribune says he's "Masterful". The Old Town School of Folk Music, where Mark has taught since 1986, calls him "Funny, passionate, intimate & unforgettable". He is now their "artist in residence". Last year's audience at Tara and Jerry's was delighted and wants him back! If you missed it, here's another chance. If you were there you'll want to reserve seats now.

Mark and Chris Walz were the entertainers on the October 8th inaugural run of the City of New Orleans train from Chicago. Click: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=IXQ8x1-IRkE&NR=1&feature=endscreen>

The Folk Alliance Region Midwest has named Mark the 2013 Lantern Bearer.

For reservations email jerryw@earlham.edu $10 per person all to the performer. Directions from Paul Bunyan's in Minocqua. Take "Old Hwy 70" West to "Dr. Pink" on the left. Take "Pink" 0.8 mile south to "Woolpy Dr." on the right. Take "Woolpy" 0.2 mile to the end at 8395. Call 715 356 6276 if lost.

Listen: <http://www.markdvorak.com/folkstage.mp3>

Order CDs at <http://www.markdvorak.com/store/>

Like all of the Woolpy's concerts, it is sponsored by Bats in the Boathouse press publisher of Tara Woolpy's novels, Releasing Gillian's Wolves, and Raising Wild Ginger available in print and Kindle from Amazon. Look for Midnight Summer at the Rise and Shine to be released this spring.

BATS IN THE BOATHOUSE
PRESS

